GENERAL NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

John Kelly Bounced.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—An interested crowd of politicians about the City Hall this morning to attend the aldermanic meeting. It was believed that the anti-Tammany members of the board had agreed with the republicans to confirm Mayor Cooper's nominations. There was a long debate on the proposition by a republican alderman to confirm the appointment of Allen Campbell comptroller in place of John Kelly. Tammany desired to refer the nomination to a committee, but were beaten 12 to 9. Discussion continued as to confirmation. When the vote was taken it resulted for confirmation 13, against 9, and Allen Campbell succeeds John Kelly as comptroller. Confirmations rapidly followed of the nominations of the mayor, some of which were republicans and the rest anti-Tammany democrats.

But one Regret.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Comptroller Kelly was waited upon this afternoon by many persons who expressed their regret that he would no longer be connected with the finance department. He was engaged until late arranging his affairs preparatory to his departure, but Mr. Campbell the new appointee sent him word that he would not be prepared to take charge of the office until to-morrow. Kelly said that his only regret in retiring from the department was in severing his connection with the faithful employes to whom he had become deeply attached.

Senator Bayard—"A Willful and Wicked Falsehood."

S. Boutwell, solicitor of the treasury, were present in the custom house when this money ($267,000) was paid and that they divided it among themselves, concludes: "[illegible] now elapsed since you thus published [illegible] this reported utterance. [illegible] this sentiment, a newspaper published at [illegible] place, where the speech is said to have been [illegible] only one day later than your issue, [illegible] report. Yet up to this time no disclaimer or [illegible] by or on behalf of Mr. T. F. Bayard, has appeared so far as we know. We think it time to notice [illegible] slander purporting to come from a [illegible] of the senate of the United States, [illegible] pronounce the statement, by [illegible] a truthless calumny. Gen. Howard not to go to West Point.

The president had a long talk with Gen. Howard, in the course of which he admitted that he had called him to Washington to make him commander at West Point, but had been dissuaded from doing it by General Sherman and Secretary Evarts, not on account of personal opposition to him, but because they hold that the change would be too violent in view of Howard's well known variance, in what he regards as the correct policy, as contrasted with Scofield's administration. He promised Howard, however, that he should have some good place in the east as soon as he could settle his affairs in Oregon and take it. He told him, also, it is understood, that he should make General Terry commandant at West Point.

Gladstone's Circular.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Gladstone's circular to members of the house of commons desiring their attendance in parliament for important business, says that business of the first importance will at once be proceeded with. The Daily News, in a leading editorial article commenting on the circular, says: It effectually disposes of rumors which had begun to circulate that parliament would not after all be summoned before Christmas and of other rumors put forward with the semblance of authority that the government would be compelled in consequence of divisions among the ministers to content itself with a declaratory resolution on the Irish question instead of proceeding by bill. The Daily News adds: At the same time most persons will read Gladstone's circular with a distinct sense of relief. It is one thing to feel morally certain that important business will be entered upon at once. It is another thing to be informed of the fact by a prime minister.

The "Times" Reminds Gladstone.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The issue of the circular to magistrates by the chief secretary of Ireland a month after Gladstone's speech in Guild hall at the inauguration of the lord mayor of London, in which he stated that the obligation to protect every citizen in life and property might compel the government to ask increase of power, proves that in the judgment of the government their matters have grown worse. It proves also that the existing means of repression are of no avail. If in the face of existing terrorism magistrates and police had not ventured to enforce the law will they be strengthened to do so by Forster's reminder? The authors of sedition and its abettors will laugh at this tardy attempt to use obsolete weapons for quelling a lawlessness whose growth they have entirely failed to check. Such being the case it may well be asked with the contingency has not arisen at which Gladstone pointed.

Obstruction in Parliament.

The court of the queen's bench granted a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Rev. W. [illegible] Enraght, ritualist of Bordesley, near Birmingham, imprisoned in the county jail at Warwick. The writ is returnable Monday next. This case is similar to that of Mr. Dale's.

THE NORTHERN ATLANTIC FISHERIES.

Lord Granville's Letter Relative to the Fortune Bay Troubles and the Questions Arising Therefrom—Prospects of an Amicable Settlement.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Following is the text of a letter written by Lord Granville to United States Minister Lowell at London, on the subject of the Newfoundland fisheries:

FOREIGN OFFICE, Oct. 27, 1880.

SIR:—Her majesty's government have carefully considered the correspondence which has taken place between their predecessors and the government of the United States, respecting a disturbance which occurred at Fortune Bay, on the 6th of January, 1878, and they have approached this subject with an earnest desire to arrive at an amicable solution of differences which have unfortunately arisen between the two governments on the construction of the provisions of treaties which regulate the rights of United States fishermen on the coast of Newfoundland. In the first place I desire that there should be no possibility of misconception as to views entertained by her majesty's government respecting the conduct of Newfoundland fishermen in violently interfering with United States fishermen and destroying or damaging some of their nets. Her majesty's government have no hesitation in admitting that this proceeding was quite indefensible and is to be regretted. No sense of injury to their rights, however well founded could under the circumstances justify British fishermen in taking the law into their own hands of committing acts of violence, but will refer by and by to this feature in the case, and will now proceed to the important question raised in this controversy, whether, under the treaty of Washington, United States fishermen are bound to observe the fishery regulations of Newfoundland in common with British subjects. Without entering into any lengthy discussion on this point, I feel bound to state that in the opinion of her majesty's government the clause in the treaty of Washington which provides that citizens of the United States shall be entitled, "in common with British subjects," to fish in Newfoundland water within the limits of British sovereignty means that American and British fishermen shall fish in these waters on terms of equality, and not that there shall be an exception of American fishermen from any reasonable regulation to which British fishermen are subject.

Her majesty's government entirely concurs in Mr. Marcy's circular of the 28th of March, 1851. The principle therein laid down appears to them perfectly sound, and as applicable to the fishery provisions of the treaty of Washington as to those of the treaty which Mr. Marcy had in view. They cannot therefore admit the accuracy of the opinion expressed in Mr. Evarts' letter to Mr. Welsh of the 28th of September, 1878, that the fishery rights of the United States, conceded by the treaty of Washington, are to be exercised entirely free from restraints and regulations of the statute of New Foundland, if by that opinion anything inconsistent with Mr. Marcy's principle was intended. Her majesty's government, however, freely admit that if any such local statute could be shown to be inconsistent with express stipulations, or even with the spirit of the treaty they would not be within the category of these reasonable regulations by which American in common with British fishermen ought to be bound; and they observe on the other hand with much satisfaction that Mr. Evarts at the close of his letter to Minister Walsh of the 1st of August, 1879, after expressing regret at the conflict of interests which the exercise of treaty privileges enjoyed by the United States appears to have developed, expressed himself as follows: "There is no intention on the part of this (United States) government that these privileges should be abused, and no desire that their full and free enjoyment should harm colonial fishermen. While different interests and motives of shore fishery and vessel fishery make it impracticable that the regulations of this one should entirely be given to the other, yet if mutual obligations of the treaty of 1871 are to be maintained the United States government would gladly co-operate with the government of her Britannic majesty in an effort to make these regulations a matter of reciprocal convenience and right, and a means of preserving the fisheries at their highest point of production and conciliating community of interests by a just proportion of advantages and profits."

Her majesty's government do not interpret these expressions in any sense derogatory to the sovereign authority of Great Britain in the territorial waters of Newfoundland, by which the only regulations having the force of law with these waters can be made. So regarding the proposal, they are pleased not only to recognize in it an indication that the desire of her majesty's government to arrive at a friendly and speedy settlement of this question is fully reciprocated by the government of the United States, but also discern in it the basis of a practical settlement of the difficulty; and I have the honor to request that you will inform Mr. Evarts that her majesty's government, with a view to avoiding future discussion and future misunderstandings, are quite willing to confer with the government of the United States respecting the establishment of regulations under which the subjects of [illegible] treaty of Washington [illegible] common. The duty of enacting and enforcing such regulations when agreed upon would of course rest with such power having sovereignty of the shore and waters in each case.

As regards the claim of United States fishermen to compensation for injuries and losses which they are alleged to have sustained in consequence of violent obstruction which they encountered in the occasion referred to, I have to state that her majesty's government are quite willing that they should be indemnified for any injuries and losses which upon a joint enquiry may be found to have been sustained by them, and in respect of which they are reasonably entitled to compensation; but on this point I have to observe that no claim is pushed forward by them for loss of fish which had been caught or which but for interference of British fishermen might have been caught by means of strand fishery, a mode of fishing to which, under the treaty of Washington they were not entitled to resort, prosecution by means of strand fishery being clearly in excess of the treaty privileges. Her majesty's government cannot doubt that on further consideration the United States government will not be disposed to support a claim in respect to loss of fish which they had caught by that process. I have the honor to be, etc.,

(Signed,) GRANVILLE.

ANOTHER COLLIERY HORROR.

Eighty-six Miners Buried Alive in an English Coal Pit.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

LONDON, Dec. 11—3:30 P. M.—An explosion at Penygraig colliery occurred at 1:10. The shock was so violent that it was felt for miles beyond and the damage so great that explorers were not able to descend to the mine for some hours. One shaft is choked. There is not the slightest hope of saving any of the 86 men and 80 horses still in the pit. Four men have been brought up alive.

5 P. M.—It is now ascertained that 86 of the persons who were in the pit at the time of the explosion are dead. Only seven corpses have been brought up thus far, but many others have been discovered and will be raised this evening. Most intense excitement prevails throughout the district. All roads and approaches to the colliery are thronged with wailing men, women and children. Cries of poor people whose relatives are entombed are heartrending.

LONDON, Dec. 11, 5 A. M.—Twenty-two bodies have been recovered so far, and 84 more have been seen at Penygraig pit.

"THE OREGONIAN."

[From the Pacific Christian Advocate.]

THE OREGONIAN celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of its establishment as a weekly journal on the 4th of December. The daily was started ten years later. By enterprise and lavish expenditures on the part of its managers, and great ability of its editorial department, the OREGONIAN is long since placed itself at the head of journalism in the northwest coast, and is abreast of such great journals as the New York Times, Chicago Tribune, the Inter-Ocean, the Springfield Republican. Its [illegible] journal. It was never greater than now, and is entering the new era of Oregonian progress with greater ability to serve the state than ever.

[From the Oregon City Enterprise.]

Last Monday THE OREGONIAN celebrated its [illegible] birthday. As a newspaper it is second to none north of San Francisco. Were it not for the enterprise of its proprietors the probabilities are that the people of Oregon would not even yet be enjoying the news every morning from all parts of the world, as they have been doing for many years past. As a metropolitan newspaper it completely fills its place, and there is no necessity for the insane jealousy often manifested by the provincial press towards it. It is just as impossible for THE OREGONIAN or any other political paper to usurp the field of the provincial press, as it is for a provincial press to take the place of THE OREGONIAN. Our wish is—success to THE OREGONIAN.

[From the New Northwest.]

The Oregonian was thirty years of age last Tuesday, December 7th. On that day it gave an interesting description of its growth, and a brief but graphic history of early journalistic enterprise. The [illegible] its early [illegible] [illegible] journal, which by its enterprise has fairly earned the right to rank as the foremost newspaper of the Pacific Northwest. It promises to participate in the great development of this portion of the nation, leading the growth of the country as heretofore, instead of following it.

[From the Corvallis Gazette.]

On last Monday, the 6th inst., the OREGONIAN entered on its thirtieth year. Its existence, having been founded in 1850, when Oregon was little less than a howling unknown wilderness, a few paper [illegible] [illegible] power in the land.

The Oregonian [illegible] of its existence [illegible] [illegible] has kept up with the times in furnishing [illegible] the world.

[From the Vancouver Independent.]

The OREGONIAN was thirty years old Tuesday which is a respectable age for a newspaper on this coast. May we all live to see it still the largest and best paper on the coast when it is 60 years old.

CONGRESSIONAL.

House.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.

Bicknell called up the electoral resolution, but the house refused to consider it and went into committee of the whole on the private calendar.

The committee rose and several bills of a private nature were passed.

Simonton moved to reconsider the vote by which the house yesterday referred to the committee on claims a letter from the acting secretary of the treasury transmitting a list of claims arising under act of July 4, 1876. After some discussion the motion was agreed to and the bill referred to committee on war claims.

Representative Shelley, from the committee on postoffice and post roads, reported to the house today his bill providing for the establishment of a mail steamer between ports of the United States and South America, Central America, Mexican and trans-pacific ports. The bill with accompanying favorable report was ordered printed and recommitted to the committee. The report was adopted by the committee at the last session of congress and published at the time. It is the intention of the committee to report the bill finally to the house at an early day and urge its passage.

Hubbell, from the appropriations committee, reported a pension bill; printed and recommitted. It appropriates $48,400,000 for the army, $[illegible] for the navy, $250,000 for surgeons and $25,000 for salaries.

Herbert of Alabama, from the judiciary committee, reported back a bill allowing marshals and deputies to take bonds in certain cases; referred.

The speaker laid before the house a communication from Gambetta, president of the French chamber of deputies, in regard to the exchange of documents between that body and the U. S. house of representatives; referred.

A letter from the secretary of state, transmitting two additional volumes of speeches of Thiers, presented by Madame Thiers; laid on the table.

Blount moved that adjournment to-day be until Monday. This motion was opposed by a number of democrats, but was finally carried, yeas 106, nays 69. Adjourned.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

The Cota Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—When the case of the extradited Mexican Cota, came up in the superior court, this morning, Deputy United States District Attorney Lovell appeared and stated that instructions have been received from Attorney General Devens, for the district attorney to represent the United States and maintain action under the treaty and endeavor to prevent a collision of the state with Mexican authorities. At the request of Lovell, who desired to examine the case, continuance was granted until next Tuesday.

The Desmond Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Proceedings to remove Desmond from office came up for hearing in department No. 1 this morning at 10:20. Desmond's counsel moved to set aside. Judge Wilson announced that he would hear arguments next Tuesday evening, and the case was continued to that time.

Still Grinding.

In the Mussel slough case to-day W. H. Clark, grader of the railroad company, told the story of the shooting, not differing from previous reports. One hundred and eight suits in ejectment against settlers in the Mussel slough region brought some time since have been set for trial in the U. S. district court for January 11th, next.

Dividend and Assessments.

NEVADA.

Murder Avenged.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—A Belleville Nevada dispatch, says Charles Marshall, a noted desperado, on Tuesday night last, brutally murdered an inoffensive old man named Jack McCann, who was first shot and then kicked until he was dead. This morning while the sheriff was starting with his prisoner for Aurora, the county seat, a party of citizens rushed upon him and his posse, and forcibly took Marshall from their custody. The prisoner was then conveyed to the outskirts of town and hanged.

ARIZONA.

The Southern Pacific Wins.

TUCSON, Dec. 10.—Judge Chas. Silent decided today in action brought by Pima county to recover taxes from the S. P. R. R. that an act of territory passed in 1879 which exempts the Southern Pacific from taxation for four years is not in contravention of the act of congress which forbids granting of special privileges to private corporations. The tax levied against the railroad company he decides is therefore void.

SOLDIERS' READING AND LUNCH ROOM.

An Interesting Experiment which Promises Good Results.

[Vancouver Independent.]

An interesting experiment, the first of the kind tried in the U. S. army, has been entered upon at the headquarters of the 21st infantry. By order of Col. A. H. Morrow, on the 29th of November, the large room over the guard-house at Vancouver barracks was set apart for use as a reading room, under charge of the post librarian. In the room, which is well lighted by large windows during the day and by lamps and reflectors at night, are placed a large reading table covered with periodicals and newspapers; a large writing table furnished with stationery; a number of small tables with games upon them, of cards, chess, etc., the post library; and last but not least, a lunch counter, where for five cents is furnished a cup of coffee and a sandwich, or a cigar. The room is open from 1 to 9 P. M., and from 6 to 10 P. M. Proper rules are ordered and enforced upon those who attend here, and good order being maintained at all times. Gen. Morrow informs us that the plan originated with Capt. G. M. Downey and Capt. Evan Miles of the 21st regiment, and the work is being ably seconded by Gen. Morrow and all the officers at the post. So far it is a success, the average evening attendance this week from the two companies here being 61 privates, and the average number of lunches furnished each evening being 40, and this is only the first week's trial. The result of this noble effort to improve the mental and moral condition of the soldiers in the army will be anxiously watched by many interested persons, and should it prove a thorough success may be beneficially introduced at all the western posts.

Considerably Astonished.

[From the N. Y. Tribune.]

Brigadier-General Chalmers has reason to be a good deal astonished at the row which the leading Democratic organ of Mississippi is kicking up about him. This is the third time he has elected himself to congress by throwing out or seating off Republican votes, yet there has never been any trouble about it before. He must wonder why it is any worse to do it a third time than it was the first and second. His district has a sure republican majority of [illegible], but free counting has given him a democratic majority of from 4,000 to 5,000. What democratic journal in Mississippi objected to it when [illegible] 1878 is hotly denounced by the Vicksburg Herald in 1880. The world does move.

The Monopoly of "Protection."

[From the Louisville Courier-Journal.]

There are eleven steel-rail mills in the United States protected by a duty of $28 a ton on the foreign article. These [illegible] by the railroad companies [illegible] and these protected rail-makers [illegible] they cannot fill the orders, and the railroad men have to buy their rails abroad and pay the heavy tax. Every dollar of this tax enhances the cost of building railroads and enhances the cost of transportation [illegible] rates of freight. Should there not be a reduction of this enormous tax, which consumers of steel rails pay to the steel-rail monopoly.

The expense of carrying the mails in the states which gave their electoral votes to Hancock was $[illegible] in excess of their postal receipts during the last fiscal year.

Query—I wonder if Uncle Myers intends to pay for his goods, he is actually giving them away?

DECEMBER MAGAZINES.

St. Nicholas for December will be a surprise to its young readers. The new decoration for the cover will be wintry and spirited. Among the varied contents will be an operetta for young people called "The land of Nod," in which six little sleepy-heads visits the marvelous place and see many wonders. Mr. Frank R. Stockton will contribute one of his droll fairy stories, and Mr. Washington Gladden describes "A Christmas Dinner with the Man in the Moon." A new feature of St. Nicholas will be [illegible]. It is a "treasure-box of literature," whose virtues and purposes are indicated by the first contents which will be reprints of Nathaniel Hawthorne's fantasy, "David Swan," and Thackeray's poem, "King Canute." Both are to be illustrated.

An article by the Hon. George S. Boutwell in the North American Review for December, entitled, "The Future of the Republican Party," is sure to arrest public attention. Written after the result of the recent elections had been ascertained, this article defines the position which the republican party is, in logic and in policy, bound to assume toward the southern states. The other articles in the December number of the Review are: "The Discoveries of Olympia," by Prof. Ernst Curtius; "National Sunday Observance," by the Rev. James Freeman Clarke; "Southern Statesmen and Their Policy," by the Hon. John Jay; "The Ruins of Central America," by Desire Charnay; "The Distribution of Time," by Dr. Leonard Waldo; "The Public School Failure," by Richard Grant White; "The Validity of the Emancipation Edict," by Aaron A. Ferris.

The December number of the International Review contains eight articles of value, besides two little poems and a number of book reviews by the editors. The leading article is entitled "State Support of Denominational Schools in England," by the Rev. R. W. Dale, D. D., of Birmingham, England, and is followed by a thoughtful article upon "English Philosophy and English Philosophers," by D. G. Thompson Esq. Karl Blind writes of "Alexander von Humboldt in Politics," and throws much light upon the political life of the great scientist. The first installment of "Bush Life" in Australia is given by Mr. Walter Chamberlain, M. P. "The Drink Problem" is discussed by Dr. Felix L. Oswald, in a common-sense manner from a scientific standpoint. Mr. Edward Atkinson, the well known political economist of Boston, has taken up the question of Money, and gives a "Reply to Professor Bonamy Price," whose article appeared in the September Review. "The University of Texas" is made the theme for an interesting article by Mr. Oscar C. Cooper. Judge John Lowell writes upon "A Bankruptcy Statute in the United States," giving a brief sketch of his proposed new law.

The Popular Science Monthly for December opens with Herbert Spencer's second paper on "The Development of Political Institutions," which is devoted to the principles of political organization in general. Huxley's address on "Science and Culture," at the opening of the Mason Science College, is given in full. Dr. George M. Beard has a curious paper on the nervous phenomena exhibited by the "Jumpers" or "Jumping Frenchmen" of Maine. A copiously illustrated article follows by W. F. Denning on "The August Meteors." Prof. H. Carrington Bolton has an historical disquisition on "The Early Practice of Medicine by Women." "Methods in Industrial Education," by Prof. S. C. Thompson, gives an account of the objects and methods of the working of the leading industrial or technological schools for boys on the continent. Dr. Friedrich Heincke digests what is known on "The Migrations of Fishes." A series of illustrated articles, contributed by Charles M. Lungren on "Domestic Motors," is begun in the December Monthly. The first is on "Wind and Water Power," and describes all the contrivances by which these forces may be made available in a small way for household use. There is a paper by Dr. T. Lauder Brunton on "Indigestion as a cause of Nervous Depression." Dr. S. Austin Pearce contributes a paper on "Oriental music." Prof. Tyndall's discourse on "The Sabbath" needs no commendation; and the concluding "Sketch of Prof. Dumas," the French chemist (whose likeness is given), is a fragment of biography by Prof Hofmann.

ODDS AND ENDS.

The best and most thoughtful journalists now allow contributors to the waste-baskets to write on both sides of the sheet.

The bee can deliver a stinging retort and yet keep its mouth shut. This is where it has the advantage of the campaign orator.

Prof. Proctor will return from Australia via America, and we hope that the stars in this vicinity will be on their good behavior.

"Never borrow trouble," said a husband to his wife. "Oh, let her borrow it if she can," exclaimed the next door neighbor, "she never returns anything, you know."

The late William B. Spooner, of Boston, bequeathed $10,000 to the Divinity School connected with Harvard University, and $5,000 to the Theological School at Meadville, Pennsylvania.

"Kings I Have Met," is the title of Archibald Forbes' last [illegible]. Some day Mr. Forbes will come across three kings and a pair of sevens. Then he will learn something about the really great resources of this country.

A Galveston school teacher had a great deal of trouble making a boy understand his lesson. Finally, however, he succeeded, and drawing a long breath remarked to the boy: "If it wasn't for me you would be the biggest donkey on Galveston Island."

Toddlekins is a very small man, indeed, but he said he never minds it at all until his three boys grew up to be tall, strapping young fellows, and his wife began to cut down their old clothes and put them over to fit him; and then he said he did get mad.

NEWS NOTES FROM SALEM.

[REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE.]

SALEM, Dec. 10, 1880.

Miss Ethel Crane is just recovering from a severe attack of the diphtheria.

T. S. Roadman of Roseburg, and R. S. Maloney of Sheridan, have been appointed notaries public by the governor.

Prof. X. N. Steeves is teaching temporarily for Prof. Gregg, who is officially visiting the various school districts in the county.

Geo. W. Belt, we learn, contemplates removal to Independence, where he will swing to the breeze his shingle as an attorney at law, while a host of friends in this city will wish him abundant success.

The common council of the city of Salem has consented to the vacation of the street immediately west of the state capitol building grounds, and Wilson avenue will soon become part and parcel of the capitol building grounds and probably improved accordingly.

Law students throughout the state will do well to bear in mind that there will be no examination of students for admission to the bar before the supreme court during the coming January term, the first examination being set for the second day of the March term.

The board of directors of the Oregon State Agricultural Society have been in session in this city for several days past, considerable business having been transacted. The time fixed for holding the next fair is from June 13th to July 6th, inclusive. It was resolved to license the sale of beer on the grounds, one person or firm to have exclusive privilege. Preliminary arrangements were also made for a new floral department, to be arranged and supervised by H. Miller, Esq. of East Portland, something unusually fine being anticipated, a liberal appropriation being made by the society for that purpose.

The county sheriff and a number of citizens are searching diligently for one Charles Miller who, for several months past has been working for Elder Brower. Miller yesterday committed a shocking outrage on the person of a nine year old daughter of a Mr. Eoff, enticing her into the woods, and there by brute force succeeded in accomplishing his heinous crime. The community in which the dastardly act took place was of course highly incensed, and a number of men at once set out in search of the villain, who, when last seen, was counting the railroad ties on the narrow gauge between Silverton and Woodburn.

Learn the Value of Money.

A silver dollar represents the day's work of the laborer. It is given to a boy. He has no idea of what it has cost or of what it is worth. He would be as likely to give a dollar as a dime for a top or any other toy. But if the boy has learned to earn the dimes and dollars by the sweat of his face, he knows the difference. Hard work is to him a measure of values that can never be rubbed out of his mind. Let him learn by experience that a hundred dollars represents a hundred weary days of labor, and it seems a great sum of money; a thousand dollars is a fortune, and ten thousand dollars is almost inconceivable for, it is far more than he ever expects to possess. When he has earned a dollar he thinks twice before he spends it. He wants to invest it so as to get the full value of a day's work for it. It is a great wrong to society and to a boy to bring him up to man's estate without this knowledge. A fortune at twenty-one without it is almost inevitably thrown away. With it, and a little capital to start on, he will make his own fortune better than anyone can make it for him.

"LIES: BIG LIES!"

Not so fast, my friends; for if you would see the strong, healthy, blooming men, women and children that have been raised from beds of sickness, suffering and almost death, by the use of Hop Bitters, you would say "Truth, glorious truth." See "Truths," in another column.

How can Uncle Myers afford to sell his pistols and guns at such a low price? because he has low rent and small expenses. 131 First street.

OLYMPIA NOTES.

[OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENT OF THE OREGONIAN.]

OLYMPIA, Dec. 8, 1880.

The Odd Fellows of this city are highly pleased with the address delivered by Rev. Newell before their order. The governor is a fine speaker.

Our town has the misfortune of having a long string of sidewalk where coasters can ride down at the rate of thirty miles an hour. Many have been the bumps and bruises.

The portion of the Kansas colony (50 in number) that arrived here some two weeks since, are still located at the fair grounds near this city. They are waiting for developments and better weather.

The 15-inch snow of the 4th inst. has already melted into mud and now we are happy, of course, because we have the chance to wear our short dresses, gum boots and gum coats, which are taking the place of umbrellas with our people.

The Newell colonists, who are now making a road into Sherman valley, are kept in good cheer by the fact that they have located in a valley that is rich in wealth for the farmer. This colony expects another invoice of immigrants in the spring. It is said there is room in this valley for their whole colony.

[From the Tacoma Ledger.]

General Sprague has received the following letter from President Billings:

PRESIDENT'S OFFICE, N. P. R. R. Co.,
NEW YORK, Nov. 20th, 1880.

Gen. J. W. Sprague, general superintendent, New Tacoma, W. T.—Dear Sir:—I am happy to say to you that the great financial negotiation in which I have been engaged, is as good as completed, and means are secured to carry the enterprise through to completion.

We now will push the work on both sides of the continent with the utmost vigor. The day of doubt is past, and somehow I feel almost as if my life's work were accomplished. Anybody now can build this road, but I pray God to spare my life until I can see the last rail laid. Yours very truly,

FRED'K BILLINGS, President.

SATURDAY MORNING DEC 11 1880

A SCHEME TO MUDDLE THE COUNT

[illegible] has discovered the [illegible] ... ttle on fixed principles the counting of the electoral vote. Ever since the last election when events demonstrated how necessary it is that definite regulations be established to govern the counting of the vote so that in case of close and disputed contests there might be a lawful way of arriving at results by which all parties would be bound this majority has refused to take action on the subject preferring to have the whole question open as heretofore so that in the possible turn of affairs in the election of the president on this occasion party advantage might be taken of the absence of definite regulations. But the election has been decided against the party representing the majority in congress, and now that majority wants to adopt a rule or series of rules to govern the counting of the vote in the evident hope that some advantage may accrue therefrom to the party that was defeated in the election

On the subject of counting the electoral vote the constitution is extremely ambiguous and obscure. The electoral certificates are to be transmitted to the president of the senate and "the president of the senate shall in the presence of the senate and house of representatives open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted." Up to 1876 the proceeding under this clause of the constitution was extremely simple and no controversy arose because there was no dispute over any electoral votes which could affect the result. In every instance the president of the senate opened the certificates in the presence of the two houses and declared the result which had of course been known long before. But in 1876 there were several disputed states with two sets of electoral certificates from each, and on the decision thereof depended the election. Each party looked at the situation from the stand point of its own interest. The republicans or most of them, held that the votes were to be counted by the president of the senate, and that the two houses were to be present only as spectators, to give formality or add dignity to the proceeding. The democrats, on the other hand, claimed that the president of the senate had properly nothing to do with it beyond opening the certificates; they declared that congress ought to take the count into its own hands, and insisted that the vote of no state should be counted to which either house might make objection. This under circumstances then existing, it was supposed would result in the rejection of the vote of several states, leave no one with a majority in the electoral college, and throw the election into the house of representatives, which would elect Mr. Tilden. As a compromise the electoral commission was agreed on. This carried the country over the danger for that occasion, but the whole affair showed the weakness of our system at a most vital point, as well as the necessity for joint exercise of patriotism and statesmanship to avert the possible recurrence of so grave a danger. Again and again was congress urged to provide definite regulations for counting the vote, before another election should come on to plunge us into the possible danger of another electoral dispute, with no means of effecting a settlement. Senator Edmunds drew up a bill on the subject which was absolutely fair for all parties and urged its enactment, and the subject was also pressed repeatedly upon the attention of the house. But the majority in congress, thinking the contest this time would be close, and relying on having the count securely in its own hands, with power to settle any possible dispute in favor of the democratic candidates, refused to take action. It resolved not to hamper itself by the adoption of any rules, and so the election came on, with the country exposed to the danger of dispute, anarchy, and perhaps of civil war—in case of a result about which any question could have been raised.

But instead of a close and disputed result there was a decisive one. It is apparent that the people, fearing that this very difficulty, which congress had refused to provide a way to meet, might arise, had resolved to settle the election so decisively that there would be no need of any appeal this time to an electoral commission or to adoption of rules by congress to regulate the count. But on the very day on which congress reassembles, this majority, which had refused for four years to adopt rules to govern the count, hastens to propose a rule conceived in a partisan spirit, and announces its purpose to press it by every means in its power to adoption. Since fortunately there is now no occasion for any interposition by congress, this action is taken simply in pursuance of a design to raise a dispute, if possible, over the result. It comes as a fit sequel in the closing history of that congress whose acts are written in the records of the extra session that awakened the indignation and wrath of the people, and caused the crushing democratic overthrow of November, 1880.

We are by no means denying the right of congress to adopt measures for regulation of the electoral count. And no one who considers the subject carefully can doubt that there is need of such regulations to meet contingencies which the election of 1876 shows us are likely to arise in any presidential election. Congress ought to free the country from this standing menace, [illegible] refusal to take action for the past four years, under intent to leave a door open to settle any dispute that might arise in its own favor, the democratic majority should now be resisted in its attempt to establish rules to get a partisan advantage in a case where the people have so positively declared their absolute will. At present there is no necessity for any departure from the old method. There is no dispute over this election, and no rule should be adopted to enable the democratic party to raise one. Adoption of such rule is not pressed at this time to settle a contest, but to create one, not to provide an impartial method of determining a count in the disputed states, but to give a basis for starting a dispute,—and for such basis any pretext however shallow would be deemed sufficient. The election of 1880 is settled. The people have voted and the electoral colleges have voted. It remains only to open the certificates in the presence of the houses and declare the result. The majority is decisive, no state has sent up a double set of electoral certificates and there is no necessity this time for departure from the method of opening the certificates and declaring the result which always prevailed up to the electoral dispute of 1876.

Nevertheless, to provide against future dangers congress ought to take action. There would be no objection to such action now if it were taken in proper spirit. But the proposition, as now offered, is not in the interest of peaceful solution of electoral controversies—for no controversy is now presented—but is designed to make an electoral controversy where none exists. In this matter the incurable fatuity that rules in democratic councils again appears. When twenty years of severe adversity the result of political follies bring a party no lesson we may almost conclude that the brains are out. Every new development in the course of this party's history seems to point more and more to the justness of this conclusion. It seems impossible for it to quit its crooked ways its odious methods its disposition to dodge and palter in the shifts of lowness. Since the discipline of the defeats it has received will not cure it its case would seem quite hopeless. They who imagined that the party would be wiser after its recent defeat may witness with some discouragement this new manifestation of that still unchastened instinct that incurable political stupidity which men fitly denominate American Bourbonism.

Land Agent Prosser's report on the Willamette Valley and Cascade Mountain wagon road brings out two communications written in the interest of the road company in which all [illegible] that the road is not a good and com[illegible] are emphatically denied. Without [illegible] any discussion of the question [illegible] whether [illegible] enough [illegible] for wagons or not, we must say that it seems to us no possible wagon road constructed through the country could be worth 800,000 acres of land. True we are not sure of the fact that considerable part of the lands can hardly be regarded as worth much though if we mistake not they are the same described in Mr. Hogg's recent prospectus and letter as selected lands of great value and on which with the tide lands around Yaquina Bay an effort has been made to raise a loan of $3,500,000 to build the Oregon Pacific railroad. Either so much land was given for this wagon road or Mr. Hogg's estimate of its value is far too high. In our remarks on the subject we said last that the road companies were not solely in fault but that congress was censurable for having granted great tracts of land for objects not commensurate with the value of the tracts granted. If this criticism be well founded such grants are a fraud on the public. The question between the land agent representing the government and the company controlling the grant as to whether a sufficient wagon road has been constructed or not we may leave them to settle. The statements of Mr. Crawford and Mr. Wheeler seem however to fasten on the agent a charge of duplicity and tergiversation to which he would do well to pay attention.

It will please many democrats to read that John Kelly the sachem of Tammany has been bounced. He has been ousted from the highly lucrative position of comptroller of the city of New York. In this matter the republicans have done their duty, fully disproving all stories of a bargain with Kelly to keep him in his position. Since the democratic party could not rid itself of the domination of this vulgar boss it was well for the republicans to come to its aid. Kelly would have been renominated to the position had not his term expired before the accession of Mayor Grace to office. He hoped to be able to postpone the appointment till his mayor should come in but failed. All democrats who believe that Kelly beat their party by his raid upon Tilden will rejoice in the downfall of the "boss."

Matters in Ireland are assuming more serious aspect every day. It is evident that nothing but the presence of British bayonets holds the dissatisfied classes under restraint. It is plain also that the government would treat the first outbreak as a rebellion rather than as a mere riot and would crush it with armed force. In these menaces there is no possibility of gain for Ireland.

Eastern papers arriving by mail report the Northern Pacific syndicate arrangements as being the financial sensation of the day. All the journals discuss the subject and fully agree that the arrangements assure the completion of the road within three years.

EMELIE MELVILLE OPERA COMPANY.

Messrs. G. W. PRENTICE & Co.:

GENTLEMEN—The artists of the Emelie Melville Opera Company take pleasure in thanking you for the Pianos used during their brief and successful season of Opera while in Portland. The tones of the Weber Piano are so pure and prolonged, and of such inexhaustible depth, that they sustain the voice in a wonderful degree. The action is so elastic they are built so firmly and strongly, and keep in tune so remarkably well that we readily accord the Weber Piano the title of the Instrument Par Excellence. We can honestly say that we not only commend them in the highest terms but consider them the BEST pianos now in use.

The trial came up yesterday before Judge ..., who gave judgment for plaintiff in the amount demanded. The case will doubtless be appealed to the state circuit court.

A VIGOROUS REMONSTRANCE.—Yesterday's OREGONIAN contained mention of an effort which is being made to secure the release of George Collins alias ... Fred George, the Clackamas county murderer. District Attorney Caples has drawn up a remonstrance against the granting of the petition which is being circulated in Clackamas county and other portions of the country. The public feeling against the release of Collins appears to be almost unanimous. We understand that nearly 2000 citizens have signed the remonstrance.

SOCIAL NOTES.

The Danish society will give a ball on the evening of Dec. 31st.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Green will give a party at their elegant residence next Tuesday.

Mr. J. F. Mecoy, of Albany, was married Thursday to Miss Minnie Johnson of that city.

There is romance in figures. A young man met a girl, for married her and look her on a wedding 2er.

The young ladies union of Taylor street church will meet in the church vestry this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Among the newest fashionable freaks may be included that for collecting dinner cards. It is a harmless mania.

Married life reaches the acme of happiness when a woman can eat crackers in bed without any complaint from her husband.

A Fall River girl earning a salary of $3 a week has fallen heiress to $150,000. We never noticed it before, but she is very pretty.

A Quincy boy sat behind his girl for just one hour the other night and kissed her ninety-six times out of a possible hundred. The other four times she got in a hurry and kissed him.

The young people's union of the Presbyterian church will meet next Tuesday evening at the residence of Mrs. Tuthill, corner of Ninth and Salmon.

"Is it true, Harry, that you have broken off with old Smith's daughter?" "Alas, yes! I was forced to, although she is a charming woman." "Why?" "Incompatibility of complexion. She does not suit my furniture."

Wedding cards are small, neat and simple this season. All monograms, crests and huge initials are ruled out, and as a man is known by the company he keeps, so a bride is to be known by the kind of cards her parents put forth.

The ladies of the First Congregational church welcomed and entertained their friends last night in the church parlors. Choice music, literary exercises and refreshments, added to the pleasure of social enjoyment rendered the affair very delightful to all.

At the last meeting of the Adelphian society of Corvallis the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: President, V. C. Brock, vice president W. S. Masters, secretary, V. Davis, treasurer, G. Hovendon, librarian, Leo Stock, assistant librarian, H. Carter.

I must tell you of a conversation I overheard at Manhattan beach between two children who were playing in the sand together. The small boy said to the little girl: "Do you wish to be my little wife?" The little girl, after reflecting: "Yes." The small boy: "Then take off my boots."

The Shakespeare Social and Literary Society of Salem has reorganized for the ensuing season, under the most favorable auspices, holding meetings every Tuesday evening at the Good Templar's hall. The following are the officers: James Walton, president, Miss Elva Breyman, secretary, and A. T. Gilbert, treasurer. It is to be hoped they will give public entertainments before the close of the season.

"HOME EVENING" AT UNITARIAN CHURCH.

A "Home Evening" at the Unitarian chapel last evening was the occasion of a pleasant gathering of guests the ladies of the church acting as hostesses. An informal programme of exercises were well carried out, as follows:

Instrumental solo, Miss Atwood.
Reading—"The Maid of Bregenz"—Miss Lalia Dalton.
Reading—"The Face at the Window Pane"—Miss Augusta Allen.
Vocal solo, Mrs. Woolner.
Instrumental solo, Mrs. W. P. Olds.
Vocal solo, Mrs. Goodsell.

After these parts refreshments were served. This is understood to be the first of the monthly social evenings, to be continued through the winter, for the purpose of affording opportunity for mutual acquaintance and entertaining strangers. Considering the hard storm this opening night was a success, and all present enjoyed the courtesies so hospitably extended. The piano was kindly furnished by Prescott & Co.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION.

Tuesday last, the 62d anniversary of the birthday of Mr. Henry Myers was the occasion of one of the most enjoyable affairs, held at the old homestead, near Dallas, Polk county. On that day his children, grandchildren and relatives, making a large number, took the house by storm, and loaded with the good things of this world gave Father and Mother Myers a grand surprise. A bounteous repast was prepared for the occasion, and the event will be one long to be remembered by the participants. The guests comprised Mr. S. T. Biggs and family, Mr. G. W. Myers and family, Mr. J. Hastings and family, Mr. M. F. White and family, Mrs. Mary Myers and family, Mr. James Myers and family, Mr. J. L. Hyde and family, and Dr. Kimball, and the old family board rang with mirth and laughter.

A Broker's Romance.

[From the Wall Street Daily News.]

It is a very touching incident. We heard a southern editor telling it on an elevated train yesterday and he was in a great hurry to get home and put it in his paper and make an affidavit that it was true. The scene of the romance opens in a palatial mansion in New York. A lady sits in a parlor filled with the most costly luxuries. Diamonds as big as filberts glitter in her ears. Lace costing $30 per yard almost hides the color of her dress from sight. A clock costing $18,000 strikes the hour of 4 P. M. At this moment her husband rushes into the house. Pale, haggard, suspenders broken, hat bunged up and his boots all mud.

"Have you—have you caught the epizootic?" she gasps as she starts up.

"O wife, wo ... busted—ruined—gone up—smashed flat as a shingle," he moaned in reply. "H... w..."

"I invested $75,000 in the Crooked River Railroad at 98, and it has declined to 4. Jay Gould has bought ... up ... at ... We must give up this palace and all these luxuries and works of art and take two fourth story rooms over in Brooklyn."

She laughed merrily and long. Had the sudden news crazed her? He thought it had, but he was green. She left the room for a moment and then returned with a ... containing $500,000 in greenbacks.

AMUSEMENTS.

The repetition of the military drama True Blue at New Market theater last evening drew a fair audience. The night was dark and inclement, but that disagreeable circumstance did not prevent many from attending. The play was presented more acceptably than on the first night, the various characters having become more familiar with allotted roles. With the exception of a few minor defects the piece ran very smoothly. Mrs. T. J. O'Connor gave a very excellent rendition of the character of "Widow Carrington" as "Belle Carrington". Mrs. O. Summers appeared creditably for an amateur. Mr. Sears, Charles Carrington, gave a very good rendering. Mr. Summers played the part of the "Moke" very well, and Toney Miller, as the Dutch man, created no little merriment by his antics and dialect. The remainder of the characters were very fairly sustained. The tableaux were really very fine in arrangement in the matter of lights and color and in general effect. One of the most attractive features was the counter marching by the soldiers just at the close of the piece. Generally considered, "True Blue" was presented quite well and the performance last evening gave unqualified satisfaction. "True Blue" will be presented this evening for the last time. A large number of tickets has been sold and an overflowing house may be expected.

SATURDAY MORNING. DEC. 11, 1880.

AND AGENT PROSSER'S REPORT.

He is Declared to have Misrepresented the Willammette Valley and Cascade Mountain Wagon Road.

ALBANY, Dec. 10, 1880.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

My attention has been called by some of our citizens at Albany to a paragraph in THE OREGONIAN of Dec. 8th, headed "An Oregon Fraud—Land Agent Prosser makes an Interesting Expose—How the Cascade Mountain, Military and Wagon Road Company Attempted a Big Grab on the Public Lands," and purporting to have been received from Washington on Dec. 7th in a special dispatch to THE OREGONIAN.

Inasmuch as I accompanied Mr. Prosser, at his request on the journey on which his report is said to be based, I have been requested to lay before the public the following statement:

It must be understood that I have not seen Mr. Prosser's report itself, and that any comments I make are based on the telegraphic report you published, which I can not but think must be imperfect and misleading, as it differs widely from the opinions he expressed on the journey, and while the impression was yet fresh in his mind of the character of the road and its necessary cost.

I was introduced to Mr. Prosser, at Albany, on the 23d September, and requested by him to accompany him on the journey he told me he was instructed to make over the road in question. He said that he supposed he would have to buy or hire a horse, and was surprised to hear from me that I proposed to go in a carriage, as he was told that he could only go on horseback.

We traveled in a two seated carriage with two horses, and returned at the end of 26 days with the team none the worse. During that time we stayed the greater part of one day at Prineville, and reached a point 333 miles from Albany—thus averaging travel over 27 miles a day.

We returned, not from any impossibility of going further, but mainly because the weather had turned cold; the season was very far advanced, and Mr. Prosser was informed by Mr. Burns, the gentleman at whose house we stayed, that unless we returned at once there was a good chance of our having to stay with them all the winter.

On the journey we passed repeatedly loaded wagons, carrying loads up to 32 hundred weight—and Mr. Prosser questioned the drivers on many occasions, being told by each that they were getting along very well, and had no difficulty in traveling. In crossing the Cascades Mr. Prosser commented many times on the heavy grading that had been done, and the quantity of timber that had been moved and grubbed. He said that the company deserved great credit for the enterprise they had shown in constructing so expensive a road to open up a connection between the Willamette valley and the country east of the Cascade mountains. He made no objection to the road at all till we neared Camp Harney, which is 294 miles from Albany. He observed then that the company ought to have done more work in keeping the road up. I replied that he must bear in mind two facts, one that the great droves of 8000 and 10,000 cattle which were driven along the road at intervals all the time, injured the road a great deal by crowding it with stones, and that it was a dangerous country to build a road in, as when we worked it first we had to have our rifles by us all the time.

After we passed Camp Harney some 40 miles, it is quite true that the road ceased to bear traces of as much work as up to that point; but the very place where we stopped, which is just 338 miles east of Albany, was on a grade cut out of the hill side. I pointed out where another grade was easily seen a little farther on, but the fact is, as Mr. Prosser saw and admitted, that during the ten years since the road was built there, another road has been opened out some few miles to the northeast, leading from Camp Harney through the reservation to the Malheur river, and what travel there is has gone that way, the company's road having been so much disused that we noticed sagebrush growing up in the middle of the grade itself.

The road altogether is 448 miles long and all necessary bridges were constructed. But throughout the last 200 miles there are no streams to be crossed where bridges are either practicable or necessary. Although the rainy season had set in when we crossed Silva's creek and Silver river we had not the slightest difficulty in getting through with the carriage. There is careful grading down to the fords and the stones moved to either side in the streams, with good firm bottoms.

We returned by the road to Albany at Mr. Prosser's desire, instead of turning north to the Dalles either from Canyon City or Prineville. When Mr. Prosser returned he said unreservedly that those men who had written on to Washington to say that there was no road had lied; and he knew as well as I did that the complaints had been made by squatters who had settled down without any title on the road company's sections and were attacking the company on the chance of so getting at a title to the land. I have been a citizen of Linn county for 33 years and have known all about this road from the first, although I am not a stockholder in it or interested in its property. I was in charge of working parties from 1864 to 1871, when the road was built—and I had myself a contract for the construction of two miles in the mountains, for which I received from the company the sum of $1850. I have seen and am familiar with the books of the company and I know that in the first opening of the road upwards of $65,000 was spent on the construction. I know also that the parties interested did not include in this sum any charge for their own time and labor.

I have traveled the road repeatedly in all seasons that it was open by reason of the snow melting and I have never found any difficulty in traveling.

It is used for heavy wagon loads all the time. The stockmen along the eastern section all the way from Harney and beyond send to Prineville, which is 140 miles east of Albany, for their supplies, and it is a common thing to see them starting out eastwards from Prineville with from 1500 to 2000 pounds on their wagons. Since the road was opened it has been crossed by over 4000 wagons, and there has been but one accident, and then a pair of mules was lost by the carelessness of the driver. In reference to the open character of the country in the eastern section it is quite true that the grading was confined to those sections where it was necessary, and to begin cutting in the level ground where it was free from rocks would only have destroyed the surface and spoiled instead of improving the road.

It is absolutely false to say that the grading did not cost $500, or that $2 a mile would cover the entire cost of location and construction for the entire distance east of the Cascades; so false that I am amazed that any person having a vestige of reputation dare venture such a statement.

It is equally and notoriously false to say that hardly a trace of the road can be found except 60 miles at the western end, or that much or any of this road was built by the counties and not by the company.

It is equally false that the greater portion of the line of road has been from the beginning the merest pretense without bridges or grading, and practically unfit for use except under the most favorable circumstances. Such statements can only have been made by parties interested in obtaining the road land and can be disproved as soon as they are published.

To say that the road was not constructed in accordance with the requirements of the law is absurd in the face of the facts before stated.

All that the acts either of congress or of the state legislature require is that the road should be so constructed in reference to width, grades and bridges as to permit of its regular use as a wagon road.

Not only is it in constant use by the public, but the United States mail carriers have used and still use different portions of it for many miles in the regular conveyance of the United States mails.

In your article of the 9th of December you describe this company's undertaking and conduct as an "outrageous fraud both upon the general government and the state of Oregon." Before using such language it would have been more consistent with the usual character of THE OREGONIAN for fairness, if you had acquainted yourself with the facts of the case.

JASON WHEELER.

A Letter from the President of the Company.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In the paper of the 8th you publish a telegraphic dispatch from Washington, headed "An Oregon Fraud," and on the 9th inst. a leading article beginning "Discovered at Last." Both are based on a report said to have been rendered to the general land office by a special agent named Prosser. In your leading article you use the expression "A fraud which has long been notorious in Oregon." When any one, whether a "special agent of the land office" or not, says one thing and writes the opposite, the public should know it, especially when he is made the organ of charges of gigantic and notorious dishonesty.

Mr. Prosser was introduced to me at Albany about the 21st of September, and told me that he was a government officer deputed to go over and examine the road, from complaints that had been made at the land office that there was no road and that it was a fraud on the government. I asked for and he then showed me his instructions, which included a letter from a Mr. Barnes, making those statements. He purposed to buy or hire an Indian pony, under the belief that there was no road. He was amazed to find that a two-horse carriage could go over the road. I introduced him to Mr. Jason Wheeler, of Albany, and arranged for him to have a two-horse carriage and they started.

Before they started, Mr. Prosser had a conversation in my presence with Dr. W. F. Alexander, who told him that he had we ghed on a Fairbanks scale six wagon loads going over the mountains, and that with a single team they took 1800 and 2500 pounds, and double teams from 2500 to 3500 pounds, without any trouble. He also saw Mr. Curtis Price, who told him that his team was a small one, but he took 1800 pounds over the mountains with ease.

They returned on the evening of the 19th of October, and I saw Mr. Prosser at his hotel. He told me that he was very agreeably disappointed in the road was even better than had been represented by me to him, and that the man that put in the report to the land office put it in with some design, and that it was a lie from the word go. He said that the road was the best mountain road he had traveled in this or any other country, and that it must have cost an immense amount of money and labor to make such a road through so rough a country. He said it would be better for one or two more bridges. I told him that they had been put there originally, but that the mountain fires had burned them out and stopped the travel, and that it had been found better to grade down to fords instead and clear the streams for passage. He also remarked that between Ochoco and Camp Harney—that is from 150 miles to 293 miles from Albany—where the water in places had washed the dirt from among the rocks it had left it a little rough for wagons, and that it needed some repairs. I remarked that I did not think the company was obliged to keep it in repair beyond the part where they took tolls. But that I knew that all the company had received for tolls and more, had always been expended on the road. He told me that he had seen and talked with many of the settlers along the road, that they were all well pleased with the road, and that they considered it the greatest enterprise and benefit to the western country to open up that eastern country to this Willamette valley.

Except as to one stone Mr. Prosser made no complaint about the road but on the contrary, expressed his admiration of it [illegible].

I traveled the road myself first in [illegible] with a party which went from Albany [illegible] miles. The road then was in good [illegible] condition at which we were all surprised. We had a four horse team and a two horse carriage. We went from 20 to 35 miles a day and had no difficulty whatever. We found a good road all the way, bridges wherever necessary, and no difficulty in crossing any streams that were not bridged. In the eastern section bridges were not necessary or desirable, for the streams are small and shallow and even if bridges were there a traveler would take the ford in preference, that he might water his stock.

I am not one of the original stockholders in the company although a resident in Albany who came there in 1852. I was one of the parties who purchased in 1871. The original company filed articles of incorporation on May 20, 1864, and had done a large amount of work before the act of congress granting the lands was passed in 1866. The object of the company was to open up communication between the Willamette valley and the country east of the Cascades. Since 1871 upwards of $17,000 has been expended by the present owners in repairs and maintenance of the road from Albany to the Des Chutes river, being the portion of the road over which tolls are taken. Since 1871 the company has paid taxes to a considerable amount.

I should mention that this Mr. Barnes whose statement to the land office was shown me by Mr. Prosser as the cause of his being sent out, is one of a large number of squatters on the road company's land. An action of ejectment is now pending against him in the United States circuit court. I cannot but think that the telegram to THE OREGONIAN from Washington was based on the statements of Mr. Barnes rather than on Mr. Prosser's report, for he, when he saw me in Albany, characterized Mr. Barnes' statement as a lie.

In conclusion I have to say that how far THE OREGONIAN's charge of fraud is justly made against other military wagon road grants, I have no means of knowing. But so far as to the Willamette valley and Cascade mountain wagon road is concerned, my own knowledge of the facts enables me to deny the charge in the strongest terms.

FRIDAY EVENING, Dec. 10, 1880.

Sellers were on the market to-day eager to dispose of considerable lots, but unwilling to let go for the prices offered. Several firms declined to bid at all owing to the lack of means of shipment. We learn of several transactions at $1 40 per cental, but even at that reduced rate it would probably be difficult to place a large lot unless of prime quality.

THE SAN FRANCISCO TONNAGE MARKET.

Complete Review of the Situation—Possibility that Portland may Draw a Few Ships—Charter Rates, etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—The outlook for freights at present excites an unusual attention, as upon them depends to a greater extent than usual the price of wheat. There are some thirty-five vessels, aggregating upwards of 40,000 tons, due here before the first of the year, which, added to the vessels in port, gives a very free supply of tonnage for the present. Whether this is sufficient to break the market or not is a matter of doubt, but we are inclined to believe that it will not materially affect freight, though rates may decline temporarily under heavy arrivals. The reasons for this belief are based upon the following facts:

At Portland there are no disengaged vessels and the amount due there is light. The telegraph reports nominal rates at £4 5s@4 8s for orders, the last spot charter being a wooden ship at £4 2s 6d, and free lighterage, which is at least equivalent to £4 5s. Although there is certainly a feeling against sending vessels to Portland on account of the danger of the Columbia bar, particularly at this season, good rates there and inability to obtain them here would no doubt clear our harbor of a portion of the surplus tonnage. Again, coal freights from British Columbia at going rates, say $5 per ton for the round trip, offer paying business for a limited amount of tonnage. These two facts with knowledge of the immense amount of wheat that must be shipped will go far to sustain the market.

The total tonnage in sight is insufficient for the needs of this coast for the balance of the season and comparatively few additions are being made to the list. It is also a fact that although holders of wheat are now rather indifferent about selling, a good rain-fall in January, insuring the next crop, together with the tax collector, who puts in an appearance on the first of March, will act as strong inducements to unload. The outlook therefore is on the whole, favorable for tonnage. The week past has been quiet, vessels arriving under charter supplying most of the demands. Quotations are £3 10s@£3 12s 6d for wood, and £3 15s for iron for orders, as asking rates. The latest charters reported are: ship Matchless, 1198 tons wheat to Cork U. K., £4 10; Br bk Isle of Butte 929 tons wheat to Cork U. K., £3 7s 6d, prior to arrival; Br bk River Lagan, 851 tons wheat to Cork U. K., prior to arrival.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The extreme cold weather has appeared to act as a drawback on shipping interests to-day. Still very good business was done at the wharves of California vessels. The Big Bonanza has finished and is ready for sea. Her cargo comprises in part: 195 bbls whisky, 140 bbls pickles, 120 cases cider, 25 bbls oil, 300 cases canned goods, 40 les cranberries, 200 pkgs starch, 325 kegs and 16 bbls syrup, 300 cans castor oil, 274 bxs pepper sauce, 410 bbls plaster, 300 tons coal, 100 tons track iron, 200 coils rope. Rates unchanged.

Railroad freights have been quite active the past week with shipments of 2700 cases coal oil, 700 pkgs starch, 87 pkgs nuts, 50 bxs raisins, 35 pkgs dates, 200 bxs soap, 700 kegs and 30 bbls syrup, 10 bbls rum, 75 cases oil, 182 cases canned goods, 804 pkgs tobacco, 500 kegs pickled fish, 10 bags coffee, 20 bales hops, 1900 bxs window glass.

Markets are still rather quiet.

Wheat—Unsettled and feverish.

Barley—Steady and better demand.

Provisions—Unchanged.

Rio coffee—Demoralized by suspects on of another large firm, and there is no market.

Refined sugars—Good demand; a shade higher.

Hides—Better demand at concession 5½c.

Turpentine—Quiet and unchanged.

Petroleum—Higher and firmer.

The English Grain Markets.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 10.—A leading grain circular says: The grain trade continues very dull and prices at various markets are generally a shilling lower. Cargoes off coast meet with a moderate inquiry and are steadily held. Cargoes for shipment are offered at lower rates on spot. Business has been of the merest retail character at rather under previous rates. Attendance at to-day's market was small and a very limited business was done at a decline of 2d for wheat. Flour and corn are quiet with downward tendency.

Boston Wool Market.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—The wool business has been fair for the season. Sales of the week comprise 2,000,000 lbs of all kinds. The tone of the market is quieter, particularly for washed fleeces, but this is not unexpected, as manufacturers are not disposed to purchase largely while taking account of stock. Prices remain the same. Sales of California fleeces have been large, upwards of 900,000 pounds, at 25@37½c for Spring and 19@26c for fall, having been effected.

Liverpool Breadstuffs Market.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 10.—Breadstuffs heavy; wheat 9s @9s 11d per cental; average California wheat 9s 9@9s 10d for California club; 9s 4d@10s red winter; receipts of wheat to-day 62,000 centals, including 39,000 American.

The Chicago Wheat Market.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Wheat—Weak and lower and closing firmer; $1 01⅞ cash; $1 2[illegible] for January; $1 3½ for February.

The San Francisco Wheat Market.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Wheat—Lower; No. 1, $1 47½@1 50; No 2, $1 42½@1 45.

Barley—Feed, lower at 8[illegible]@8[illegible].

Gold and Stock Company's Reports.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.

Receipts—62,700 ctls wheat, including 47,500 for Oregon; 1900 qr sks flour, 50 ctls oats, 4,100 sks potatoes, 30,000 doz eggs.

Charters—Br bk, Isle of Bute, wheat, Cork £3 7s 6d prior arrival; Br bk River Lagan, wheat, Cork U. K., private, prior arrival; Am ship, Matchless, wheat, Cork, U. K., 70s, spot charter.

Butter—The market is demoralized, sellers are nervous and anxious to clear up stock. The pr[illegible] list begins at 20@25c for common and [illegible] for fair to good and [illegible] for choice to extra choice.

Eggs—The market can by no means be called better, as holders are stimulating trade by shading rates. Quote choice fresh California, 47½; fair eastern, 25@27½; Utah, by express, 32½; Oregon, irregular at 35@[illegible].

Hops—Market quiet but firm; Oregon and Washington nominally, 18@25c.

Provisions—Supplies are larger; dealers stimulating trade by shading rates. Hams, choice eastern C. to arrive, offered in carlots [illegible], 12½ a 1[illegible]; lard and bacon, prices not materially changed.

Hides—We quote as before. Wet salted steers large and under tone weak.

Pears—We quote various kinds from [illegible].

Apples—The market is overstocked with inferior, demand is mostly for choice. Among sales yesterday were the following from store: [illegible] frosted Oregon, 50c; [illegible] to choice, [illegible].

Oranges and Lemons—Market is well supplied and prices are advancing.

Wheat—Market is quiet with prices against buyers; sales choice shipping, $1 47½; nos [illegible] at $1 50@1 52½ for choice shipping.

NOT A BEVERAGE.

"They are not a beverage, but a medicine, with curative properties of the highest degree, containing no poisonous drugs. They do not tear down an already debilitated system, but build it up. One bottle contains more hope, that is, more real hop strength, than a barrel of ordinary beer. Every druggist in Rochester sells them and the physicians prescribe them."—Rochester Evening Express on Hop Bitters.

DR. C. McLANE'S

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

such as SPERMATORRHEA or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit these diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.
